

Service Description – Pre-Course E-Learning Programme

The aim of all of our advanced first aid and trauma courses is to reduce preventable pre-hospital deaths by training you to identify and treat life-threatening emergencies and prepare casualties for rapid evacuation to hospital.

Our Pre-Course E-Learning is designed to precede your course, to enable the course itself to be as practical as possible. It is extremely important that you complete your E-Learning before attending the practical course.

CERTIFICATION & NOTES

Certification is gained on successful completion of the course.

You will be notified of any changes to the E-Learning course content, which is updated annually to ensure it remains current and in line with course material and Faculty of Trauma & Resuscitation recommendations.

It has been developed to include the latest medical protocols, guidelines and best practice at the time of issue.

Regular refresher training, via this E-Learning, is essential to maintain your skills.

EMPLOYER RESPONSIBILITIES

Employers themselves are responsible for establishing that their staff have the capabilities requisite to their setting, essential in the interests of patient health and safety. The holding by an individual of a Certificate of Qualification from Trauma Resus does not reduce their responsibility in that aspect.

The award of the any certificate indicates that a trained provider has successfully completed their training course and completed the assessments but does not constitute a licence to practise, without the associated Clinical Governance.
